

Dear Friends of the Last Ocean

We are counting down to the final few weeks before CCAMLR will decide on the fate of marine protection in the Ross Sea. Our road trip will soon be heading to the UK for screenings in London and Bristol, and then on to Germany to screen at Bremerhaven itself. We are hiring theatres in these locations to screen the film and leveraging off that to spread the word and get media attention on the issue.

Our fundraising efforts through Indiegogo are currently falling short of our required budget and we appeal to those of you who can, to please support the campaign - we have only 10 days left. Your contribution will go directly towards helping to protect the Ross Sea and makes our load a lot lighter.

Please understand, we appreciate the support we receive from you in all its forms, whether it is encouragement or simply sharing the story. On this occasion we are asking for financial support because that is what is what is required to get this film seen.

You can donate to the road trip here: <http://www.indiegogo.com/projects/saving-the-last-ocean>. If you have contributed already, or are not able to, then please send our story to your friends.

Our community is our foundation and we are pleased to be sharing this journey with you. We've created a desktop wallpaper for you to download - the image is courtesy of John Weller and is exclusive to FOLO members. To access your wallpaper click on either of the images below. The next few weeks building up to CCAMLR will be interesting times indeed. Stay tuned.

Thank you,
Peter, Tracy and the Last Ocean team
